

Ἀνώνυμος ὁ Αὐλωδός

Anonymous Aulody and the Song for the Aulos

eul_aid: fzk

Period: Κλασική Classical
Dialect: Ἑπική Epic \(Homeric\) (frg)
Domain: Ποίησις Poetry
Format: Ἑμμετρος Verse

The designation Aulodia Anonymous refers not to a known author but to a genre of lyric poetry sung to the aulos. No biographical information exists for an anonymous figure from the Hellenistic or Imperial period under this name.

The genre itself is older, with the poet Pratinas of Phlius composing a hyporchema titled Aulodia in the early 5th century BCE. No anonymous work titled Aulodia from the later period is attested. The only specific work associated with the term remains that of Pratinas.

Any hypothetical anonymous Aulodia from the Hellenistic or Imperial era would signify a continuation of earlier Greek musical-poetic traditions. However, the sources provide no evidence for such a work, focusing instead on the classical precedent. The purported fragmentary transmission yields no identified fragments.

Works (1)

- Ἀνώνυμον Αὐλωδία · Anonymous Aulody · 24 passages