

Ἐπαρχίδης ὁ Οἰνηΐτης

Eparchides of Oineis on Icarus and Wine

eul_aid: cmq

Period: Κλασική Classical

Dialect: Ἀττική Attic

Domain: Ἱστορία History

Format: Πεζός Prose

Eparchides of Oineis was a 4th-century BCE Athenian author, known only from a citation in the lexicographer Harpocration. His name identifies him as coming from the deme of Oineis, part of the Athenian tribe Oineis in northern Attica. No further biographical details survive.

His sole attested work is On the Demes of Attica, a lost prose treatise cited by Harpocration for information on Athenian civic subdivisions.

Eparchides was a minor Atthidographer, a chronicler of Attic local history and institutions. His work contributed specific details on Athenian deme organization, serving as a reference for later antiquarians, though its impact was far more limited than that of major figures in the tradition.

Works (1)

- Ἀποσπάσματα περὶ Ἰκάρου καὶ Οἴνου · Fragments on Icarus and Wine · 2 passages