

Διονύσιος ὁ Βυζάντιος

Dionysius of Byzantium on Navigation of the Bosphorus

eul_aid: qtk

Period: Ῥωμαϊκή Roman
Dialect: Κοινή Koine
Domain: Γεωγραφία Geography
Format: Πεζός Prose

Dionysius of Byzantium was a Greek geographer active in the 2nd century CE, likely during the reign of Emperor Hadrian. He is known only as the author of a work on the Bosphorus Strait, and no details of his life beyond his name and origin survive.

His sole known work is the Anaplous Bosporou, or Peri tou Bosporou, meaning "Voyage up the Bosphorus" or "On the Bosphorus." The text survives fragmentarily, primarily through a later epitome. Dionysius's significance stems from his detailed, periplus-like description of the Thracian Bosphorus. His work provides valuable topographical, historical, and mythological information about the strait's landmarks during the Roman era, making it an important source for the historical geography of the region. The text exemplifies the antiquarian interests of the Second Sophistic period.

Works (1)

- Περὶ τῆς Πλοηγίας τοῦ Βοσπόρου · On the Navigation of the Bosphorus · 48 passages