

Τιμόλαος ὁ Κυζικηνός

Timolaus of Cyzicus on the River Maeander

eul_aid: ewo

Period: Κλασική Classical

Dialect: Ἀττική Attic \(frg\)

Domain: Ἱστορία History

Format: Πεζός Prose

Timolaus of Cyzicus was a historian from the city of Cyzicus, a Greek colony on the Sea of Marmara. He lived during the 4th century BCE, though no specific biographical details about his life or education survive.

He is known solely for a lost history titled Persica. The work is preserved only in fragmentary citations by later authors, such as Diodorus Siculus and Athenaeus, and dealt with Persian history and customs.

Timolaus represents a minor contributor to the Greek genre of Persian history. His Persica forms part of the Hellenistic historiographical tradition that documented the Achaemenid Empire for a Greek audience, and his fragments are occasionally cited as sources for Persian matters.

Works (1)

- Ἀπόσπασμα · On the River Maeander · 2 passages