

Ξενοφώντος ὑπόμνησις

Scholia on the Anabasis Within the Xenophon Commentary

eul_aid: dlq

Period: Κλασική Classical
Dialect: Ἀττικίζουσα Atticizing
Domain: Γραμματική Grammar
Format: Ἑμμετρος Verse

The entry "Xenophon Commentary" refers not to an author but to a work, translating as Commentary on Xenophon. The title indicates a late antique scholarly hypomnema on the classical historian. No specific compiler or commentator is identified in standard sources.

The sole work is the commentary itself, Commentary on Xenophon. The provided metadata describes it as a grammatical text in verse employing an Atticizing dialect, consistent with scholarly practices from the 2nd to 6th centuries CE. Its current status—whether extant, lost, or fragmentary—is not recorded.

A commentary from this period would be significant for understanding the reception and scholarly study of Xenophon in late antiquity, illustrating how his language and works were interpreted within educational traditions. However, the work is not attested in major reference sources.

Works (1)

- Σχόλια εἰς Κύρου Ἀνάβασιν · Scholia-the Anabasis of Cyrus · 276 passages